

Memo: Paulie Skaja-Bell

A Woman of Excellence

This is a woman that puts “good” service providers to shame. Satisfactory is not in her vocabulary. AND- “I’ll get back to you tomorrow”- does not exist. For as long as I have known her, Paulie Skaja-Bell has gone above and beyond her call of duty as a person and business coach. Strong, fiercely faithful and brilliantly creative are a few words that come to mind when I reflect on Paulie and her business career.

She has a passion for her work and does what she says she is going to do.

Paulie goes out of her way to make sure a job gets done and is done just the way you want it- it’s just uncharacteristic of so many American Service Providers, despite the taglines of many companies.

I was hesitant to ask for help with my business because I didn’t want someone to come in and take over my ideas and creativity and change it all. Skaja-Bell works hard to make MY DREAMS and vision shine, rather than hers alone. I appreciate this gentle guidance as I work through the growing pains and now growing success of a new business. Since working with Paulie, I have a clear sense of the direction of my business, the vision for the future and specific steps of how to get there; and it is thriving, thanks to Paulie. She takes the time necessary for true growth and development, rather than offering bullet points and textbook guidelines.

I would not recommend everyone to Paulie. I would only recommend people who expect excellence and have a passion for what they do. Paulie Skaja-Bell is a woman of excellence, both personally and professionally, and she is the best fit for someone looking to grow a solid and dynamic business.

Sincerely,

Ashley Darkenwald
